Lawler Line of Standard Component Parts

In 1983, Lawler began marketing component parts used in air cleaning and pneumatic material handling systems, setting new standards industry-wide for delivery and service. Components have since become an integral member of the Lawler family and are marketed nationwide to sheet metal shops, contractors and resellers as replacements, additions or retrofits.

Lawler prides itself on foresight, keeping an eye on the market and industry needs. For that reason, Lawler maintains an inventory of components in all standard sizes.

Because Lawler understands the urgency of a needed part, our warehouse facility will stock only the very best quality available with same-day shipping for most orders, thus demonstrating that Lawler's dedication to service and quality is foremost.
